THE ENTRYWAY

Create a serene environment as soon as you open the door by introducing a piece of furniture (if you've got the space!) in rattan or light wood with a raw finish. If your entryway is a tight squeeze, opt for accessories like woven storage baskets and a jute doormat to achieve the effect. Greenery is also important in this part of the home, but if your foyer doesn't get much light and you're worried about your plants dying, there are many beautiful faux options that will work. The goal? To keep the look simple and spare so you can start unwinding the second you get home.

THE LIVING ROOM

This area of the home offers a great spot for a couple of larger plants—or a variety of smaller ones. A mix of species, colours, shapes and sizes offers a pleasing verdant effect. Furniture in wicker and pale wood tones mingled with accessories with woven textures will keep the look calm and soothing. When it comes to lighting, keep it minimal but on point with neutral hues and warm-toned bulbs.

THE DINING ROOM

This is a room in which accessories can take centre stage. Pretty table linens, serving pieces and decor items can be switched out based on the aesthetic of the season. For natural botanical charm, arrange a few pieces of crockery adorned with delicate flowers or exotic foliage on a white tablecloth or wicker placemats. Use wooden utensils, a natural artisanal bread basket, et voilà!, you'll be dining al fresco style.

THE BATHROOM

It's hands-down one of the best spots in the home to have fun with playful, creative decorating ideas. The selection of small floral patterns complements the calming theme of light woods and woven materials, while offering the fresh, springy appeal of basking in nature's goodness.
