

rooms with blooms

Romantic, abstract, pop...
whatever their style, flowers provide your spaces—big or small—with freshness and pizzazz.

MAGIC NIGHTS

Artsy flowers on a dark background offer up a majestic and mysterious atmosphere. Paired with a rustic wood headboard and cozy neutral-hued bedding, the dramatic wall is the standout piece in this room.

BREATHS OF FRESH AIR

Applied to a portion of the wall directly above the sofa, this wall mural adorned with generous bright flowers contrasts the pale, neutral hues of the surrounding walls, flooring and furniture. A few hits of colour in the toss cushions, ottoman and bouquet create balance in the decor without stealing the show from this eye-catching centrepiece.

BEAUTIFUL BOUNDARY

You can take advantage of a vacant section of wall in a small or open space to clearly define a work area by applying wallpaper over the entire height of the wall behind the desk. Dark flowers will help create a cozy and playful effect that motivates you at work time! This one will satisfy lovers of groovy 1960s and '70s decor styles.

TEST WITH TEXTILES

If wallpaper seems too permanent for you, a great way to imbue your space with floral ambiance is to do it with drapery. Open or closed, you'll get the pop of a luscious garden you're looking for—and when you're tired of it, simply switch it out or even swap it with drapery from another room.

ETERNAL GARDEN

Dressing all the walls of your entryway or stairwell (or both!) with flower-printed wallpaper provides a calming aesthetic that has you feeling like you're strolling through the English countryside. Indoor flowering plants inspired by the pattern on the walls reinforce the optical illusion. Devoid of patterns to remain discreet, the solid-hued sofa and velvet toss cushions offer the perfect spot to take a break in this poetic environment.

THISTLE ME THIS

On this mural decorated with giant thistles, the beige and copper details call to the colours of the brick wall and the herringbone floor. The like-hued toss cushions pull the look together beautifully.
